FOREWORD

Some of the glory of the Philippines lies in the beautiful variety of people and languages within its coasts. It is to the great credit of the national leadership over the years that no attempt has been made to destroy this national heritage. The goal has been instead to preserve its integrity and dignity while building on this strong foundation a lasting super-structure of national language and culture.

The present book is one of many designed for this purpose. It recognizes the pedagogical importance of dividing literacy and second-language learning into two steps -- literacy being the first. When a student has learned to read the language he understands best, the resulting satisfaction in his accomplishment gives the drive and confidence he needs to learn the national language. His ability to read, furthermore, is the indispensable tool for the study this program will require.

The Department of Education of the Philippines is proud to present this latest volume in a nationwide series designed to teach the national language through literacy in the vernaculars. It will strengthen both the parts of the nation and the whole.

PREFACE

Bunnakè in English means 'Guess it!' Here are 79 riddles which the Atta (Negrito) people have preserved in their oral tradition. Several are translations from other dialects.

The Atta language is a language spoken by the Negrito people of Northern Cagayan Province. It has a high degree of intelligibility with Ibanag of Cagayan Province.

This volume is published for the Atta people, for the purpose of arousing the interest of Atta adults in learning to read, and to give reading practise to new literates. Most of the Atta adults are pre-literates, not having had the privilege of attending public school, and a number of them are now able to read.

An idiomatic English translation is provided. This will make the book more useful to educators and anthropologists who are interested in Atta folk tradition.

The cover design is one of several patterns used by Atta women to decorate their utility baskets which they weave of bark stripped from native reeds and vines. The central portion of the design is called sinassiku, meaning 'elbow pattern'. It is bordered by the design called sinammata, 'eye pattern'.
